Speaker 1: Ripped dress

Girl: Mom, I need to talk to you.

Mother: Hmm?

Girl: Just give me a couple of minutes and please don't interrupt, ok?

Mother: I'm all ears.

Girl: Remember the day before yesterday, when Sullen ran to you with her ripped fancy dress? She blamed Karen and me for doing it and said that one of us did it out of envy because she is allowed to go to parties and Karen and I are not. I said that it was Karen who ruined the dress as I couldn't have done it because I was in piano class with Mrs. Johnson that morning. So, you punished Karen and now she can't go out for a whole month and won't get her allowance. She cries all the time and I just can't take it any more – it was actually me who torn Sullen's fancy dress - I did it right before my piano class started. I just felt so bad that Sullen had bragged about going and I had to stay at home and study. She even said that we wouldn't like being there anyway because nobody would notice us. Now I don't know what to do – both of my sisters will hate me when they find out about it, but I just can't stand Karen's crying any more. Mom, what shall I do?

Mother: Well, let me think...

Speaker 2

(Voicemail): Hi, this is James Black. I cannot take your call right now, but I would like to return it as soon as I can. So please leave me a message after the beep. (beep)

Boy: Hi Dad! I'm calling as I was supposed to. It's such a pity I couldn't reach you. Anyway, I am so happy that you let me go to the camp. It is incredible! We ride horses in the forest, ski, and watch movies every evening. And you know what? My holidays are not only about playing - so far I've managed to get some work done as I had promised before I left.

I have read 100 pages of The Life of Gargantua and of Pantagruel by François Rabelais for my French lessons, and I am ready to discuss it, but if possible, not in French, please.

Also, for my history class, I have studied the book of "World History, 18 Century" from cover to cover, and I can't wait to discuss it with you – this book I really liked though I have some question and a few things I didn't quite understand. I hope you can help me when I'm back.

And the last thing, to tell the truth, my least favorite one – don't get me wrong – I respect mathematics with all my heart – though all those equations... I see them in my nightmares. I did the tasks on pages 25 to 32, checked them using the keys and was impressed to find out that I did only three of them wrong. But there is a task on page 29 - I just don't know what to do with it. I will ask my math tutor to help me.

So, you see, I did a really good job keeping my promise about studying hard on my vacation. Cheers!

Speaker 3:

Boy: So, what do you think of the movie we've just seen?

Girl: I admit I had very high expectations for this movie, simply because I love riddles and movies that stimulate one's brain. And, at the beginning, the movie seemed pretty promising and I rather enjoyed it till about the middle. That's when things started taking the turn for the worse.

Boy: Yeah, you're right. For all the logic that movie tries to depict, it truly lacks that very same logic badly.

Girl: Exactly! There were so many absolutely illogical and dumb scenes I can't even begin to name them. What was a highly interesting scenario with great potential became just another one of these movies you are likely to forget pretty soon. Though, truth be told, I enjoyed it while it lasted, with the exception of the ending - I'd rather they just deleted it all together - and the acting was pretty great, too.

Boy: But over all, it's entertaining to a certain degree – not something mind-blowing, of course. It just doesn't live up to what it promises.

Speaker 4:

Teacher: James, I need to talk to you about what happened yesterday.

James: Yeah, I know. I'm really sorry for shouting at you, but I was just trying to explain myself.

Teacher: Explain yourself? Can you make it clear?

James: Well, yesterday, in front of the whole class, you said that I was lazy and irresponsible and that I never do my homework...

Teacher: and?

James: But that is not true! It only happened twice this year and both times I was sick the day before. And I am not lazy – I get the highest grades in many subjects. And other teachers even hold me as an example.

Teacher: Hmm...

James: Yes. You also accused me of being a bully, because I was fighting with the boys but everybody knows that they hate me because I am the best student in the class. I know what I mean. And my classmates just can't take it.

They attack me every chance they get – I am just protecting myself, and I will always fight back when somebody punches me for no reason – I am not a bully. I really want you to understand me and stop accusing me of things which are not true.

Teacher: Well...
