«THE CHESS MISTRESS»

Alexandra Kosteniuk's hand shakes a bit as she picks up a pawn and moves it to the centre of the board. After only fourteen moves the game is over with a cool "checkmate".

She is a young and attractive Russian lady whom the media call the Kournikova of Chess. She doesn't like this name because unlike the Russian tennis star, who has never won a single tournament, Kosteniuk is the current female World Champion. Up to now, she has done everything right — being a master at 8 and a grandmaster at 14.

But, like Kournikova, Kosteniuk knows that she is pretty and uses her beauty to make her game popular all over the world. She has been on covers of fashion magazines and has contracts with Russian electronics firms and mobile phone companies. She also markets a computer chess game 'Alexandra the Great' as a tribute to her success.

Doing this she wants to create a new image for chess. "Everyone thinks chess is boring" she says. "It's not only a game for fat old men in dark suits. And if you tell the world there are also some attractive young women out there playing chess, the game might get more attention!"

Born in Perm, Russia she learned how to play the grand game at the age of five. She was only allowed to watch 30 minutes of television a day and spent most of her time doing other activities. It was her father who taught her how to play chess. After two months he took her to a chess club where she won every game she played. National and international tournaments followed.

Although her parents and her sister still live in Moscow, Alexandra lives in Key Biscayne Florida, together with her husband and manager Diego Garces and their baby Francesca. The two met at an international tournament in Switzerland where Alexandra against played twenty opponents at the same time.

Being a world champion is very challenging for the young Russian because she travels a lot and is often sad when she can't be at home with her family. Playing tournaments is not so important for her any more. She spends a lot of her time giving lectures in schools and teaching children how to play. She dreams of opening up a chess academy in order to train the grandmasters of the future.

"Alexandra is a role model of the game", says her father. "Children like her because she is modest and understands them. It's motivating when kids look up to her and say : That's what I want to be like!"

Can you cook?

A) Backing B) Roasting C) Blanching D) Deep frying E) Flambé F) Blackening

There are many methods of cooking, most of which have been known since antiquity. Various methods use differing levels of heat and moisture and vary in cooking time. The method chosen affects the end result greatly because some foods are more appropriate to definite methods than others. Here are some methods you may want to try one day.

51) _____ is a cooking process wherein the food substance, usually a vegetable or fruit, is plunged into boiling water, removed after a brief, timed interval, and finally plunged into iced water or placed under cold running water to halt the cooking process. This is mainly done to soften food, or to partly or fully cook it, or to remove a strong taste (for example of cabbage or onions) . When doing it with almonds or pistachios, the skin of the nut softens and can be easily removed later.

52) _____ is a cooking procedure in which alcohol is added to a hot pan to create a burst of flames. The word means flamed in French. It is often associated with tableside presentation of certain liqueur-drenched dishes, such as Bananas Foster or Cherries Jubilee, when the alcohol is ignited and results in a flare of blue-tinged flame. However, this technique is also a step in making coq au vin, and other dishes and sauces, using spirits, before they are brought to the table.

53) _____ is a cooking method in which food is submerged in hot fat e.g. oil. This is normally performed with a specific appliance. It is classified as a dry cooking method because no water is used. Due to the high temperature involved and the high heat conduction of oil, it cooks food extremely quickly. If performed properly, the technique does not make food excessively greasy, because the moisture in the food repels the oil.

54) _____ is a cooking technique used in the preparation of fish and other foods. Often associated with Cajun cuisine, this technique was popularized by chef Paul Prudhomme. The food is dipped in melted butter and then dredged in a mixture of herbs and spices, usually some combination of thyme, oregano, chili pepper, peppercorns, salt, garlic powder and onion powder. It is then cooked in a very hot cast-iron skillet. The characteristic color of the crust results from a combination of browned milk solids from the butter and charred spices.

55) _____ is a cooking method that uses dry heat, whether an open flame, oven, or other heat source. It can enhance flavor through caramelization and Maillard browning on the surface of the food. It uses indirect, diffused heat (as in an oven) , and is suitable for slower cooking of meat in a larger, whole piece. Meats and most root and bulb vegetables can be cooked this way. The food may be placed on a rack, in a pan or, to ensure even application of heat, may be rotated on a spit.

If you are still only boiling and frying, maybe it is time to try something new?
