Read the text and do the test. Write the number of the correct answer in the box

Hot weather makes your heart pump harder, and if you're not very fit, you start to understand why the majority of mountain rescue statistics are made up from summer walkers suffering heart attacks. Heat exhaustion is quite easy to get when you're making a great physical effort. It happens when your body can't produce enough sweat to keep you cool.

The answer is to keep up your water intake. It's a good idea to drink a pint of water for every 10 degrees Fahrenheit every 24 hours. So, if the temperature is in the 70s, and you are doing a five-hour walk, you'll need a minimum of around one and a half pints of water. It's vital that you don't wait until you develop a raging thirst before you stop for a drink keep taking regular swigs from your water bottle.

Many walkers flavour their water with fruit juice, which makes it a lot more palatable. You could even use one of the isotonic drinks made for athletes, which replace the body's salts lost through sweating. Powders such as Dioralyte, which you may have in the house as a treatment for diarrhoea, will do the job just as well, as its main aim is also effective rehydration.

Given that evaporation is your body's cooling mechanism, you can help things along with an external application of water. Soaking your hat with water is a great way to cool the head, though if the sun is beating down, it will probably dry off almost immediately. Better still then if you can plunge into a river or the sea fully-clothed. And if that's not possible, then at least take off your boots and socks and paddle in a cool stream.

Walking in the heat increases the rate at which your feet swell, which can lead to feeling the feet tight in your boots. Cool water from a stream reduces any swelling and helps general foot comfort. At the same time, you can check out your feet for signs of blisters. Extra sweating makes the skin softer and increases the chance of blisters forming, in the same way as when water leaks into your boots and gets to your feet.

As for what clothing you wear, this should be lightweight and reasonably loose-fitting. Tight clothing will feel uncomfortable and may even lead to the formation of an irritating rash known as "prickly heat" on your skin. The answer, if this does develop, is to try and stay cool as much as possible. Do this by either keeping in the shade, or washing the affected area with cold water, but without soap. But prevention is by far the best approach, so keep your clothing light.

It's understandable to want to remove any extraneous clothing when it's extremely hot, but it doesn't really make much sense to take off T-shirts. The sun's rays can be quite strong, and shoulders are always very sensitive to sunburn. This is the worst place to be red and sore when you are wearing a heavy rucksack on your back. Wearing shorts can also create problems for walkers, as the backs of the legs can catch the sun very easily.

In fact, those days when an apparently harmless breeze is blowing can be the most deceptive. It might not feel so hot, so you probably won't notice the damage being done so soon. As on every other day then, a good strong sun cream should therefore be applied to any skin which is exposed. Make the most of the summer, but treat the sun with the respect it deserves.

11 Who has the text been written for?

- 1) People who go walking in the summer.
- 2) Walkers who are unfit.

There is always a question if it's better to go on a package  _____ or to travel independently? I suppose the answer depends on what kind of person you are. A complicated tour organized by a travel  _____ has some advantages. You have an itinerary, which gives you definite departure and  _____ dates, and a list of all your destinations. The accommodation may be cheaper if you  _____ it in advance. On the other hand, arranging your own trip can be fun. Many students  _____ or buy cheap train tickets, and have the best holidays ever.

Even the most experienced [26] _____ suffer from stagefright. Sometimes this can be so extreme that it almost completely paralyses the person. They stand in the wings, their heart beating at a [27] _____ of 130 or 135 a minute and often seriously think about not going on. Some even find it impossible to remember the performance at all after it is over. Others [28] _____ believe they have completely forgotten all their lines or one in particular. Most feel ill. They sweat and [29] _____, and their stomachs make strange noises. Considering the agonies that even such well-known actors as Dustin Hoffman or Robert de Niro go through, it is surprising that less experienced performers ever have the [30] _____ to walk on stage at all. So next time that you are feeling nervous before a job interview or an oral examination, remember you are in good company. The world's top performers know exactly how you feel. They should. They often feel a lot worse.
